

Join these DAN!®

Elizabeth Mumper, MD
Medical Director, DAN!®

researchers and

physicians for a

Nancy O'Hara, MD

two-day educational conference in which

Jill James, PhD

safe and effective

Stephen Kahler, MD

biomedically-based treatments for autism

Betsy Hendricks, MD

will be discussed.

DAN's practical solutions inspire hope.

Defeat Autism Now! Conference

University of Arkansas for Medical Science

LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

Friday Evening Registration & Welcome Reception ■ September 21st 7-9 pm

■ Early Registration, Welcome Reception (Meet the Speakers), Exhibit Viewing

Parent Session ■ Saturday, September 22nd (Clinicians Welcome)

- Exploring the vicious cycles in autism – intestinal inflammation, metabolic abnormalities immune dysregulation and detoxification impairment
- Identifying medical problems in autism that are amenable to treatment and that often lead to improvements in cognition, attention, behavior and general health
- Rational use of laboratory testing based on the unique presentation of each patient
- Methylation and transsulfuration abnormalities in autism
- The importance of diet and the rational use of supplements
- Strategies and local resources for developing treatment plans

Clinician's Seminar ■ Sunday, September 23rd

(Session for licensed health care providers only)

- Intestinal disease in autism with special emphasis on the pathology and potential treatment strategies utilizing case histories
- Classic genetics and the genetic predisposition/environmental trigger paradigm
- Assessment of immune dysregulation in autism
- Simple methods for understanding methylation and transsulfuration biochemistry

Travel and hotel: go to www.DANconference.com or call toll free 1-866-208-0207

Email questions: Questions@DANconference.com

Continuing Education Credits Are Available
For MDs
Details Online.

Parents listening intently at a DAN! conference.

Register Online Today—Seating is Limited!
www.DANconference.com
Autism is Treatable...Recovery is Possible!

